Lars Lerin

Lars Lerin is considered to be one of the Nordic region's leading watercolorists and indeed one of the best in the world.

Renowned for his exceptional talent and prolific output, he has also published more than 50 books of his own writing and images. A permanent exhibition of his works is on display in a dedicated art gallery in the former Sandgrund restaurant/dance hall in Karlstad, Sweden. These five new motifs have been chosen in close consultation with the artist.

Apple Fest

With the fall comes harvest time

Apples are a popular fruit in Sweden and one of the commonest types of fruit trees grown. Arguably one of the best things about the fall is the apple harvest, when you can pick the fruit you've nurtured over the spring and summer. And, as the saying goes, "An apple a day keeps the doctor away." Apples are wonderful for apple sauce, apple cider, apple pie - and now for stamps too. Send a fall greeting to your friends and families embellished with beautiful and delicious apples.

Swedish botany

Medicinal plants are plants that are used as medicine or from which medicine is extracted. The motifs on our minisheet are taken from the Hagströmer Medico-Historical Library, which celebrates its twentieth anniversary in 2017. Located in the old Haga courthouse in Solna, the Library brings together old and rare book collections from Karolinska Institutet and the Swedish Society of Medicine under one roof. The plants featured in the minisheet are plantain (Plantago major) from German botanist Leonhart Fuchs' "New Kreüterbuch", published in 1543. St John's Wort (Hypericum perforatum) from Johan Wilhelm Palmstruch's illustrated "Swedish Botany", published from 1802 onwards, and foxglove (Digitalis purpurea) from the German botanist Andreas Friedrich Happe's "Botanica pharmaceutica" of 1788.
